A Year of Change, Excitement, and Variety

Memories which stand out in a student's mind are those involving personal and social experiences. Let us recapture a few rather dominate events that took place during our 1969-70 school year.

This is the year that:

A system including a 55 minute class period and a 3:00 dismissal was adopted. Also a reduction of the noon hour resulted.

Our boys surprised many of us by clobbering arch foe Northville 16-0 in the second game of the football season.

One hundred twenty students traveled to Stratford to witness a performance of Shakespeare's "Measure for Measure".

Pamala Gunders was crowned homecoming queen at traditional ceremonies October 10.

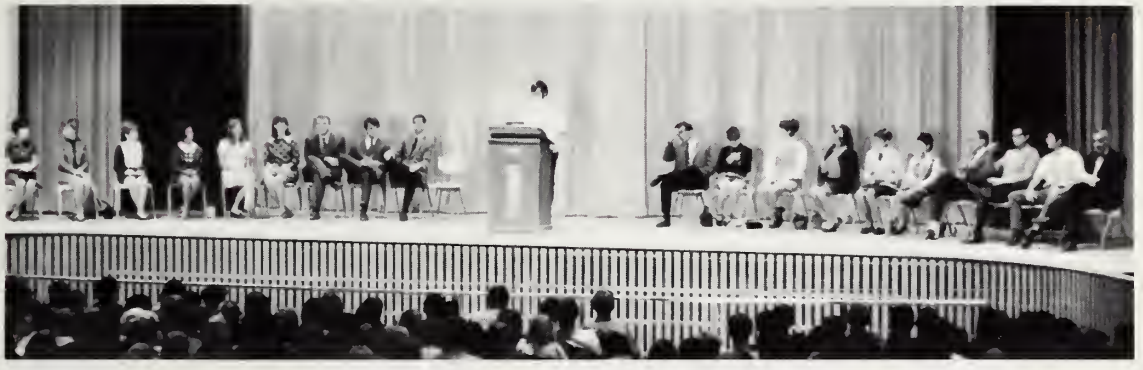
The marching 70 of the band took part in post game activities at a M.S.U. football game.

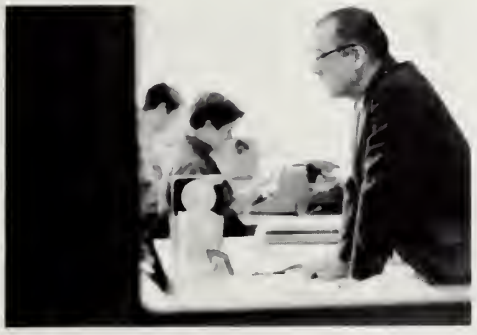
Members of the community were attracted here to take part in a teach-in, covering the Vietnam situation.

"The Chalk Garden" and the musical "Bye Bye Birdie" were among performances to be presented on our stage.

Although it would be impossible to recall everything that took place during the year, we feel these activities include total student body participation.

Academics





Sending a speaker, the UAW had a large audience.

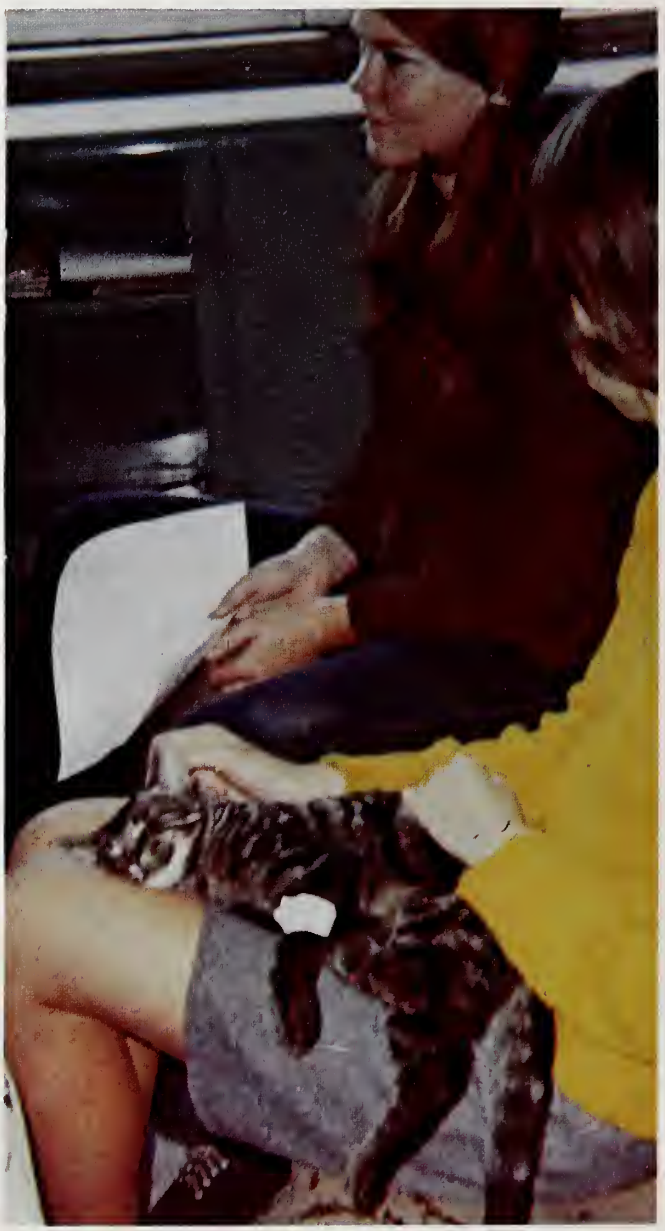
Vietnam Topic For Teach-in.

Posters plastering walls; peace symbols everywhere. In the lobby, students are passing out "Support Nixon" arm bands. Involved, eager, aware. Can this be Clarencecille?

Yes. While students everywhere boycotted classes for the October 15 Vietnam Moratorium, Clarenceville held a teach-in. Students petitioned; a faculty majority voted yes. Administration and student council approval was obtained. With less than a week to prepare, the work began.

And on Wednesday, we were ready. A special schedule of films, discussions, and speakers both pro and con was offered. Every session was filled to capacity with students and members of the community. At 3:00 the verdict was obvious. The Clarenceville teach-in was a success.

For us, Moratorium Day was more than a significant step forward in education. In an unprecedented effort, students, faculty, and administration learned they could co-operate and work toward a common goal.



Peace-ful kitty finds teach-in restful.

An array of vets spoke to students.

Before the General Session, Mr. David McDowell, superintendent, Chris Hillstead, Jef Hecker, student body president and Mr. Timothy Hill discuss last minute details.

With Mr. Gregory are technicians Gary Shiffman and Dan Clark who are determined to do things right.

Communications Dept. Gains Seven

Five new courses placed even heavier emphasis on communications this year. In the newly equipped reading lab students developed basic reading skills. Creative writing (under the guidance of new department head Miss Sheryl Hosley) and two journalism classes studied the written word.

The verbal side of communication was well covered this year with speech courses for forensics enthusiasts and a new class in play production for theater bugs. Philosophers studied hard in humanities, and those wanting to communicate in more than one language took French or Spanish.

A new face was seen in the library as Mrs. Donna Novak was added to assist Mrs. Turppa as technician.

Math and Science Draw Greater Crowds

Added to the math department this year is Miss Lois Mustonen who teaches freshman math. There are over 600 students enrolled in math courses and even though only two years of math are required, about 75 students are taking a third year, and nearly 40 are taking a fourth year.

Mr. Daniel Kelly was added to the science department's staff this year. As in previous years this department is faced with budget problems for supplying its seven teachers and their overcrowded classes with materials. Still, through visual aids and modern techniques, knowledge is gained.

Departments Accent Future

Twenty five new typewriters made the busy clacking in the commercial wing louder than ever, while students learned to "go get a job" from department head Mr. Young. But for real noise the shop was the place to go, as CHS boys were taught new skills by Mr. Norman Frid.

On the social science scene, newly headed by Mr. Ronald Rose, students voiced their opinions on almost everything, and across the courtyard, 120 art students guided by Miss Linda Hallman, sculpted and sketched in concentrated silence.

But whether you studied history, painting, woodworking, or shorthand, counselors Mrs. Dorothy Bennett and Mrs. Bess Cooley were always ready to offer advice.

In the gym, in the pool, on the field, department head Mr. Chuck Thompson and the physical education staff try to "give students physical fitness through participation in sports and related activities". Although the program remained basically the same, new equipment and ideas throughout the year helped keep courses up-to-date.

Just across the hall, approximately 200 girls from freshmen to seniors studied the arts of homemaking. As usual, personal and family living was extremely popular with the seniors. Few innovations were made in 1970 but department head, Mrs. Jane Pew worked hard all year redesigning the program on an extremely new basis for the fall.

Band and Chorus Augment Fine Arts

Softly, the moving strains of the Beatitudes float through the auditorium . . . but what about the words behind the performance? Guided by Miss Carol Hornung, chorus studied increasingly difficult music. Both the Honors Choir, (composed of the schools best voices) and the new Girls Glee Club worked harder than ever this year.

In the instrumental department a collapsible band shell improved acoustics in the auditorium and new red jackets kept our band warm at chilly morning rehearsals. But the band room was the center of activity as every day the newly separated concert and symphony bands each rehearsed for an hour.

New Attendance Office for Administration

Mr. Anthony Marra, Principal, and Mr. Donald Meier, Assistant Principal, have different and distinctive offices this year. Pandemonium in the office was the explanation for this change. Responsibilities of this new establishment is to admit and register new students, record attendance, and handle visual aid equipment.

Holding the position of President of the Board is Dr. Martin Wechsler, replacing Dr. Samuel Prisk, who was appointed Trustee.

Helping the administration run a more efficient business are Mrs. Jean Friedell, Mrs. Jeanie Dark, and Miss Anita McDonald.

Activities

Heavy Rain Plagues Homecoming

"Rain, rain go away, come again another day", could have been the theme song for the 1969 homecoming game.

Though a wet, muddy field ruined the band's half time program, a happy Pam Gunders was crowned queen, as Linda Bass led the court of one representative from each class. The juniors chose Debbie Wilson to represent them, while Carol Bell held fort for the sophomores. Lesley Flack was the youngest member of the court, as freshman nominee.

Adding to the homecoming excitement, the team beat their adversary Waterford Kettering 22-13.

Supplying the Queen's throne, the seniors placed it in the gym for the dance.

"A Snow Queen", a white castle with blue lighting was the design the senior class chose for their float—Queen Pam rode on the throne seated between the two huge towers at each corner of the castle.

Music provided by the "Purple Maze" was enjoyed by the homecoming crowd.

Intense action against Kettering characterized a strong second half that won the game.

Combined Groups Perform "A Gift of Song"

Presenting many concerts, Thanksgiving, Christmas and Spring among them, are only some of the activities which the combined chorus' participate in.

Selling three different kinds of candy to students and faculty as well as parents and hungry brothers and sisters was a major project this year. Money earned from the sales went to help pay for robes, the Foster Child Project, and the March of Dimes.

The music group was divided into three sections this year, Honors Choir, The Choral Bouquet, and a special group, the Peppermints.

Drama Group Goes to Midland

Theatre means Thespians and theatre made itself felt at C.H.S. this year. A steady series of Thespian-sponsored trips to see plays in the area was climaxed when the club went to Midland for the over-night state conference of their newly internationalized society. At home, they kept busy in the cast and crew of our own play, talent show, and '70 musical, Bye Bye Birdie.

WICH continued to dominate the air waves at CHS in 1970. New voices and techniques were added to all broadcasts as club membership grew. With the elimination of homeroom, WICH morning newscasts moved to a new time, at the end of first hour. Passing music returned in November, by student request. And Clarencevilles students, sponsored by the club, made several appearances on professional radio stations such as WJR and WWJ.

Catalina Club Stages "Common Scents"

"Common Scents" opened and closed to unanimous applause last year in the high school swimming pool.

The two shows, presented on May 15 and 16 were a success that was well-earned by more than two months of industrious rehearsal. Planned, prepared, and presented by the Catalina Swim Club, the program featured a variety of acts, from splashy comedy to the exquisite grace of water ballet. Special lighting effects enhanced the unearthly beauty of the production.

Freshmen Star in Play

Sunday evening, 8:00. Endless weeks of rehearsing reached their peak as Enid Bagnold's "Chalk Garden" came to life for one night only. This strange and witty comedy involves an unusual little girl (Sherri Smith) who is dominated by her overbearing grandmother (Barb Ouellette). Alienated from her mother (Lora Erikson), her only companion is a weak-willed manservant (Blaise Prebo) until Miss Madrigal, (Marsha Catlett) accepts the post of governess to the child, and things begin to happen. Gary Shiffman played the doddering old judge, while excellent comic relief was provided by Carol Besserman, as the nurse. Chris Nicholson and Sherry Brodsky completed the predominantly freshman cast. Drama teacher Mr. Robert Gregory, directed the production.

During approximately six weeks of rehearsal, assistant director Mary Nivison and Kay McMachen spent hours, scripts in hands, coaching their novice actors. A fanciful set, including a real tree and piles of dead leaves, was built with the help of the play production class.

Band Marched Seventy

Drum Major Larry Diamond

Four Majorettes, one drum major and seventy band members under the direction of Mr. John Neztek, traveled to Michigan State University located in East Lansing. There they participated in the after game activities that were viewed by thousands.

The sixty member symphonic band began its concert season with the annual Christmas program on December 17.

Individual talents were recognized as several students took part in the district and state solo and ensemble festival. The festival took place during the months of February and March.

The spring season was highlighted by a journey to the district and state band festival, and the annual spring concert in May.

The band's last major appearance was at the graduation ceremonies in June.

Variety of Groups Are Beneficial to School

1970 proved a busy year for FHA girls. By selling stationery, they earned approximately 500 dollars, part of which was spent on their annual dance. Also on their calendar were: a regional meeting, attended by 75 girls; a Mother-Daughter Banquet; and the state convention at W.M.U. But most members agreed that their Christmas party for the retarded children was the best experience of the entire year.

While FHA prepared students for future family living, the office assistant program gave them training for prospective careers. They filed records, answered the phone and wrote passes. In spite of complaints about the grading system most students enjoyed their semesters in the attendance office.

Service for the present, and preparation for the future occupied Honor Society this year. A record of 18 sophomores were chosen as prospective members, and helped the initiated members with various benefits and projects. Among them were the annual college board assembly and a collection of Christmas presents for Indian orphans.

Officers Serve One Term Only

A new name, a new format, and a new advisor marked changes in the bi-weekly school newspaper this year.

The Prophet published by the sixth hour journalism class had an entirely new look using a larger newspaper face and having four pages.

This year, for the first time the paper was subsidized by the board of education. Getting off to a rather slow start due to an entirely unexperienced staff, under the direction of Mr. Floyd Kucharski, the journal flourished late and received nothing but favorable comment from the student body as well as the teaching staff.

During second semester a new election of officers was held: elected editor was Randy MacIntosh, Editorial Board chairman was Ken Chmiel, members of the board were Jef Hecker, Larry Kopleman and Lenora Finn. Terry Sherman was circulation Manager. The office of Sports Editor was held by Bruce Laufer. Photography was done by Karen Bleeman. Copy Desk Editor was Larry Kopelman, Layouts were designed by Ron Bryant.

Student Council Sponsors Foster Child

For the first time the question whether we should or should not have mid-term elections for student council officers was brought before the student body. The students voted in favor of the election.

The council under the direction of first semester president, Jef Hecker, sponsored and supported a foster child in Viet Nam for one year.

The 54 member council also held discussions on such topics as student-teacher disputes, and assemblies and who should select them.

Rounding off the staff of officers for the first semester were Pam La Row serving as vice president, Cindy Shoop as secretary and Linda Bass treasurer.

Cheerleaders Ignite Spirit

Seven varsity cheerleaders and seven junior varsity including two freshmen supplied the pep and spirit for all football and basketball games.

Highlighting the year was a p.j. party given by Miss Cohen, an annual event.

From Books to Business and Even Foreign Affairs

Our exchange student Ximara Inglesias was welcomed warmly by A.F.S. students when she arrived from Nicaragua. Arrangements were made for her to make her home with Joanne Lapasinskas' family. Besides being an active member of A.F.S., Ximara served in the Queen's Court.

Mr. Young, head of Commercial Department, was kept busy this year finding job placements for new Co-op students. More job opportunities were available due to the fact that new department stores opened in the area. These were Yankee and Bargain Town.

New Features Added to Traditional Book

Constantly striving for improvement, the Trojan yearbook staffers put in long hours writing copy, designing pages, cropping pictures and editing material.

Under editor Mark Kuehn the staff worked to produce a book good enough to represent the school in national competition. With guidance from new adviser Mrs. Michale Skarvi, several new features were added to the book. An index with both student and teachers names was included as well as a double page color spread of the Vietnam teach-in. Duotone photos were also used for the first time along with dominate picture lay-outs.

Four Shutouts Top Winning Season

Four shutouts and six wins, highlighted the finest football season in recent years at C.H.S. The Trojans made a strong bid to take the WOCL title, but were turned back by Andover and West Bloomfield.

Elsewhere, in the league and out, Clarenceville met little opposition and swept seven games. The Trojans scored fifty points in the season closer, one of the largest scores ever at Clarenceville.

Rob Weller and Bob Ridling, junior and senior respectively, rolled up one thousand yards a piece and were among the major reasons for the twenty-seven point average the team sported. Ridling scored 18 TDs and Weller 13. Tri-captains were, Mike Duman, Bob Ridling, and All-league center Pat Keough.

A strong C.H.S. defense held opponents scoreless four times in nine games.

Coach Weddle–center, in his third season at C.H.S., built a winning team that showed consistant strength in defense and offense.

Clarenceville often dropped opponent quarterbacks behind the line of scrimmage and scored several safeties.

Although Trojans' defensive efforts were often successful, the J. V. lost game after game.

Fred Watson fires off a pass with time to spare.

The J. V.'s defense worked, giving up little yardage.

Kevin Molter completes a pass for more Trojan yardage.

J. V., Frosh Winless

Poorly stocked, freshman and junior varsity football teams struggled through one of their worst seasons in history.

It was the final year for the freshman team, as it will be dropped from the sports calendar. Freshmen will play junior varsity starting in 1970.

Coaches Mr. Robert Valente (J. V.) and Mr. James Hanson (Freshman) cited the poor turnout as a major hindrance. Players were forced to play both offense and defense, and many players could seldom rest.

New Mentor for CC

Five returning lettermen to the cross country team and a new coach, Mr. Joe Oliva looked toward a good season at the start of the school year. But injuries at untimely intervals robbed the team of a winning season. Clarenceville harriers tied two meets, a highly irregular occurrence in cross country, and lost two others by one and five points.

Chuck Wehner returned to his number one runner status for the third straight year and won two of seven races. He finished 25th at the WOLC meet as the team managed only seventh for the second straight year. Juniors Rod Shepherd, John Johnston, Paul Fillinger, and Bill Wehner were other letter winners. Sophomore Larry Stein and senior captain Mark Kuehn rounded out the squads varsity runners. Six of the top seven will return next season.

Brent Fournier receives a tongue depresser with his place on it as he crosses the finish line.

Larry Stein and Rod Shepherd, both varsity lettermen, lead shortly after the start of a reserve race. Runners must challenge from the JV in order to gain a position on the varsity.

Coach Joe Oliva compiled a 1-4-2 win-loss-tie record during his first year at CHS. Two ties in one season is almost unique in cross country.

Small Track Turnout

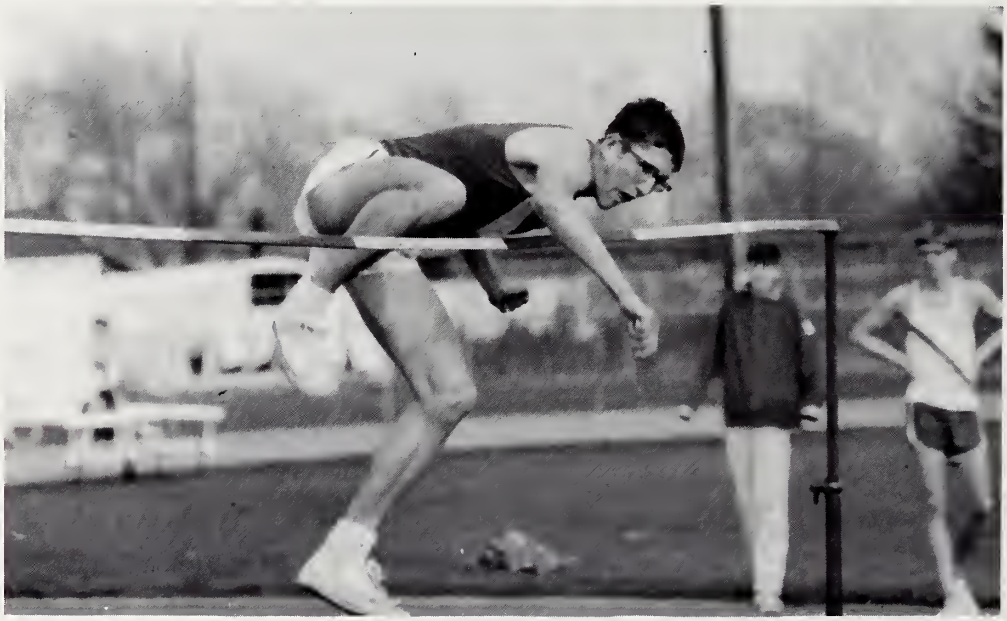
Plagued with a small turnout, few upper classmen and injuries, Clarenceville's thinclads won just one meet in eight.

After winning the season opener against Brighton, 67-50, the team was unable to win again.

John Van Auker was the sole point scorer for CHS in both league and regional meets with fifth places in the half mile. Rob Weller led the team in total points scored amassing over fifty. Mike Halstead, a leading scorer broke a leg pole vaulting against Southfield Lathrup.

Teammates John Van Auker, Rod Shepherd, and Mark Kuehn were elected most valuable, most improved, and the team captain respectively.

At right: Jim Hover long jumped as well as adding depth in the high jump and sprints.



Mark Kuehn captained the 1969 track team showing versatility by competing in nine different events. Fourteen events are contested in track.

Most valuable number of the track team, John Van Auker vaulted in addition to his middle distance running.

Gary Segerman, Brent Fournier, and Rod Shepherd were Clarenceville's two milers. Shepherd took most improved teammate honors, lowering his best time nearly two minutes.

Chip Meyrelles, a standout sophomore, played several exceptional games that won him a berth in the starting five.

Free throws are an important factor in any game and were a substantial amount of Bob Ridling's average.

Bob Ridling, CHS's quick and hard driving forward and guard netted several hundred points for Clarenceville.

Six-foot five inch Ron LaMontagne, Clarenceville's chief rebounder, completed his third season as a varsity player.

Slow Year for Trojan Cagers

Struggling through another sluggish season the varsity cagers ended league play at 3-11. Nonleague competition ended at 1-1. Clarenceville secured victories over Milford 70-72, Waterford Kettering 75-51, and Clarkston 65-55. Nonleague South Lyon also fell prey to the Trojans. The 3-11 record left CHS in seventh place in the Wayne Oakland County League standings.

Bob Ridling led the Trojan offensive attack by netting a handsome sum of 277 points as a guard and forward. On the boards Ron LaMontagne joined Ridling in pulling down the majority of Trojan rebounds.

Several sophomores made future years for the team look brighter. Chip Meyrelles and Jim Hover were familiar faces among the starters and Meyrelles was one of the team's principle point producers.

Clarenceville drew a bye in the first round of the state basketball tournament for the second year in a row and will meet Livonia Churchill in the second round shortly after this book goes to the press.

In their final game with Northville the cagers held NHS to only five points for the first half. Newly filling the position as coach this year is Mr. Hanson.

Stan Pozniak, who averaged 113 pts. per game, was a top scoring ace for the Junior Varsity.

Swimmers Smash Ten Records

Ten school records fell as the swimming team piled up an impressive 8-3 record and looked with bright hopes toward the State Class B Swimming Championships that will take place as this book goes to press.

Don Ahonen led the record setting pace by setting three individual marks in the 50, 100, and 200 yd. freestyle races as well as anchoring the 400 yd. freestyle relay and the 200 yd. medley relay that claimed new records. Senior John Sydor broke his own 400 yd. freestyle record several times during the course of the season and finished the season with a 25 second improvement over his previous years standard.

State swimming hopes lie with Ahonen, Sydor, Dale Kuehn, John Bass, and Carl Sjogren in the individual events. Their respective events are freestyle, individual medley, backstroke, and butterfly. Additional members that will represent CHS at the meet on relays include Bob Muir, Mike Ireland, and Daryl Turek.

Early Slump Spoils Record

Baseball at Clarenceville saw its membership bulge as it seldom had before. Over sixty athletes reported to form the varsity, reserve, and frosh teams. But the varsity struggled through an early season slump losing nine straight and ended with a 2-13 season record.

Only Brighton and Clarkston fell to a young Trojan team that will boast fourteen returning lettermen for 1970. Three of Clarenceville's top pitchers, Alan Mutnick, Mike Duman, and Dan Paulson, are looking toward a better season in 1970.

Rain and mud hampered the team's practices and games. Many games were postponed creating some weeks with games on almost every other day. Poor weather also forced the team indoors and mud on the new diamond added to the adverse situation. Better weather, an experienced team, and an established diamond may well reverse the 1969 season record.

At right: Trojan batters scored twenty runs during league play.

Seniors

Class of '70 Graduates One Hundred Seventy

After a year of highs and lows one hundred and seventy eager seniors graduate June eleventh, nineteen hundred and seventy.

The class bounded into Clarenceville High School from the junior high ready for action under the sponsorship of Miss Cheryl Hosley who stayed with them all four years.

Highlighting the years were float building (often using a Peanuts theme) attending athletic events, studying hard, and participating in extra curricular activities.

Class officers were selected each year: Presidents each year were: freshman Neil Fink, sophomore Jim Trouteaud, junior Randy McClory and for the senior year Sherry Lesson.

Death marked the year with the passing of classmate Doug Teline who died in the fall of 1969.

Top students were Valedictorian Linda Bass followed by Salutatorian David Nash.

Enjoying the nice weather, Linda Bass, studies notes.

Packing a walloping 235-105 against Pontiac Catholic High School our team, consisting of David Nash, Kay McMachen, Jef Hecker and Dorothy Kilian, emerge the smiling victors.

Seeking a refuge during the busy school day, seniors often gather at the lounge to relax before confronting their busy schedules again.

Awareness, is often the key word, as the seniors of today face the world of tomorrow.

This Is a Year . . .

We hope the 1970 Trojan has answered the question "What is a year?" Included in this book are pictures that we felt were most characteristic of the school year of 1970 as well as the student body of 1969-1970.

Invaluable and professional help was obtained from Powell Studios and Inter-Collegiate Press, our respective photographer and printer. Our greatest thanks go to them.

But the 1970 Trojan owes the most to its advisor, Mrs. Michale Skarvi, who taught and directed the yearbook staff, readying them for deadlines and the final production of the book.

Staff members spent long and tedious hours in and out of class to put the 1970 Trojan together. Working as a unit, each contributed his finest effort toward the final product and the fulfillment of its theme "This is a Year."
